BRAND IDENTITY CONCEPTS — MAURITIUS

DIRECTION

Venturis is a Mauritius-based supply company coordinating the sourcing and procurement of drinks and food FMCG — positioned at the crossroads between Africa, Asia and Europe. The identity leans into that positioning — navy for depth and trust, brass for the value of goods moved, and a mark built around the idea of a route: a fixed point (Mauritius) with a bearing outward. The compass mark below is the selected direction, applied across a business card, letterhead and email signature.

LOGO CONCEPTS

CONCEPT 01 — SELECTED DIRECTION

Compass Mark

A “V” drawn as a bearing needle inside a navigation ring, with a brass pin marking the destination. Reads as trade, direction and Mauritius-as-waypoint. Strong standalone icon for stamps, favicons and packaging.

VENTURIS

CONCEPT 02 — ALTERNATE

Route Wordmark

Full company name in a confident editorial serif, underscored by a single charted line that rises and falls like a shipping route and lands on a pinpoint. Best for letterheads, signage and the primary lock-up.

CONCEPT 03 — ALTERNATE

Abstract Bearing

A two-tone folded line — half V, half wave — kept deliberately abstract so it works small: app icons, embossed card corners, container seals. Pairs with either wordmark treatment above.

Notes: Placeholder name, phone and email in the mockups are for layout only — swap in real details before use.

Registration number, VAT/TAN and physical address should sit in the letterhead footer once incorporation is complete. With the compass mark confirmed, next steps could include a monochrome/single-colour version for embossing or engraving, a favicon-sized export, and extending the system to invoices, shipping labels and a LinkedIn banner — just say which.
